

Meeting of the Scientific Advisory Board

Institute of Physics, University of Freiburg
February 17 - 18, 2014

The new Scientific Advisory Board of the Institute of Physics consults and advises the institute in all aspects of its academic research and education program. During its first meeting, the board will assess the R&E activities of the institute from 2011 to 2013. Public lectures and poster presentations by scientists of the institute will provide a unique opportunity to get an overview over the many fascinating research topics dealt with.
